A well documented account of Church of Scotland Summer Missions, with testimony from those who took part, and an analysis of its longer term effect, and relation to wider trends.

Douglas Nicol hails from Fife and studied at Edinburgh and Glasgow Universities. As a Minister of the Church of Scotland he served as Youth Officer at St Ninian's, Crieff, and in parishes in Dumfries and Kilmacollm before being appointed by the 1991 General Assembly as Secretary of the Board of National Mission, and later the Mission and Discipleship Council, before returning to parish ministry in the Scottish Borders for nine years prior to retirement in Edinburgh. He continues an active involvement in church life, especially through membership of the St Giles' Cathedral congregation.

We live in a world where most people live or work around cities or in growing townships. From mega-cities to old traditional ones, cities are growing around services, industry and tourism. People move into them for jobs, health and support. But how do we engage with them? This book is a series of stories and personal reflections from Robert Calvert and others about mission in European cities today. It uses material from the 'urban ministry' course taught in Amsterdam for over twenty-five years.

Dr Robert Calvert is a Church of Scotland minister whose ministries have been in Glasgow, Rotterdam and Dundee. He has been a practitioner and source of wisdom for many years.
